Let's review!

Learning Outcome

Identify and provide solutions to problems in a range of social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What colors make you feel better when you look at them?
- If you could paint your room, what color would you choose?

Can Do Statements

- I can offer advice and solutions about healthy habits.
- I can talk about what people do or what people are doing.
- I can discuss experiences I've had or haven't had.

Let's Explore!

Vanessa shares all the details about her makeover with Sally. Will Sally help her choose the right shade?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Vanessa: I've decided my room is getting a makeover! I'm going to paint it this weekend. Do you think you could help me?
- Sally: For sure. What color are you thinking?
- Vanessa: Well, I haven't picked a color yet but I'm leaning towards an earthy colour. According to Feng Shui principles, these colors provide a grounding energy. You'd better not paint your room brown.
- Sally: Why?
- Vanessa: Why?
- Sally: That's boring. You ought to paint it something bright!
- Vanessa: That's not going to help me sleep! I've chosen a few shades.
- Sally: You have? Let's see. Oh, these aren't boring. You'd better choose this pink. I like it.
- Vanessa: I'm still deciding. Do you want to see some of the new bed linens I got? I'm thinking about returning this one.
- Sally: This is nice, you've got to keep it. What are those in that bag?
- Vanessa: Oh, those are some cushions for my room, have a look.
- Sally: I'm coming over once this room is finished! It will be the most comfortable ever! Now, let's get painting!
- Vanessa: Uh, I need to have some caffeine first. Hey, have you heard from Peter?
- Sally: He's waiting to hear from that PR place.

Learning Points

Offering Advice and Solutions

You can offer advice and solutions to people. Remember to offer advice politely.

When you talk about what is necessary, you use have got to and going to have to.

When you talk about what is advisable, you use need to, could, should, ought to, and had better.

Examples:

- You ought to paint it an earthy color.
- You should buy more cushions.
- You need to choose something brighter.
- You'd better give this room a makeover.

Learning Points

Present Perfect vs. Past Simple

You use the Present Perfect tense to talk about a finished action or event that is connected to the present in some way. You use the Simple Past tense to talk about a finished action or event not necessarily connected to the present.

You can use the Present Perfect tense to talk about experiences. When you use the Present Perfect tense, you think about the past and present together. There is some connection between what happened in the past and now.

Look at the chart about how to form the Present Perfect tense:

Form	Subject	To have	Past Participle
Affirmative	I	have	tried
Negative	We	have not	tried

Remember you can use the contracted form when speaking:

I have/have not	=	I've/I haven't
She has/has not	=	She's/She hasn't
He has/has not	=	He's/He hasn't
They have/have not	=	They've/They haven't
You have/have not	=	You've/You haven't
We have/have not	=	We've/We haven't

Examples:

- I've decided my room is getting a makeover! (Present Perfect)
- I haven't picked a color yet. (Present Perfect)
- I chose a color - an earthy brown! (Past Simple)
- I heard from my friend Peter last week. (Past Simple)

Learning Points

Present Simple vs. Present Continuous

When you use the Present Continuous tense, you concentrate on the duration of a particular activity. You are aware of the passing of time between the start and the end of the activity. This activity is not permanent.

The Present Simple describes an action that is seen as complete.

Examples:

- That's boring. (Present Simple)
- I need some caffeine first. (Present Simple)
- I'm coming over once this room is finished! (Present Continuous)
- He's waiting to hear from that PR place. (Present Continuous)
