

Let's Practice!

Sally's got some advice for Vanessa! What is she leaning towards*?

*To "lean towards" means to be more likely to choose something.

Instructions: Select and underline all the sentences that offer advice or say what is necessary. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

Vanessa: I've decided I'm going to paint my room this weekend. Do you think you could help me?

Sally: For sure. What color are you going to paint it?

Vanessa: Well, I haven't picked a color yet but I'm leaning towards an earthy tone. According to Feng Shui principles, these colors provide a grounding energy.

Sally: You'd better not paint your room brown.

Vanessa: Why?

Sally: That's boring. You ought to paint it something bright!

Vanessa: That's not going to help me sleep! I've chosen a few shades.

Sally: You have? Oh these aren't boring. You'd better choose this pink. I like it.

Vanessa: I'm still deciding. Do you want to see some of the new bed linens I got? I'm thinking about returning this one.

Sally: This is nice, you've got to keep it. What are those in that bag?

Vanessa: Oh, those are some cushions for my room, have a look.

Sally: I'm coming over once this room is finished! Now, let's get painting!

Vanessa: Uh, I need to have some caffeine first.

Let's Practice!

Vanessa is writing in her diary, can you help?

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Underline the incorrect verb. Write the correct Simple Present or Present Continuous verb to complete the sentences. Use capital letters where necessary.

1. Do you thought you could have helped me?
2. I liked it.
3. I'm still decided.
4. I have got new bed linens tomorrow.
5. I'm thought about returning this one.
6. Oh, those were some cushions for my room, had a look.